BUILD WITH PURPOSE

IMAGE BY TROUT MOUNTAIN FORESTRY

SUSTAINABLE NORTHWEST WOOD is the bridge between responsible sourcing, beautiful local wood products and the built environment.

PLACE Our Western Red Cedar is primarily sourced from tree thinning and restoration work at Camp Arrah Wanna and Camp Mountindale or is sourced from small woodland owners in the region. Western Red Cedar is a climate-smart wood that can be traced to the well-managed forests it comes from and is available as Forest Stewardship Council® Certified - just ask us.

PURPOSE This quintessential Northwest species is well-known for natural rot resistance and is ideal for outdoor structures and exterior applications such as siding, decking, fencing, trim, fascia and soffits. It also makes a beautiful wall & ceiling paneling for nature inspired interiors. Cedar is an incredibly important Northwest resource, both economically and environmentally, and is sacred to Indigenous Peoples.

PEOPLE We partner with a network of small, local businesses throughout Oregon to cut, mill, dry, and manufacture the wood into a variety of useful, durable products, supporting local people & local communities.

AVAILABILITY Select Tight Knot. Kiln dried 1x6 rough lumber, 2x4 and 2x6 decking, posts & beams, trim & siding. Custom cuts and a variety of made to order T&G products are available.

Our team of wood enthusiasts can help you find the best local, sustainable wood products for your project. Call us or stop by our showroom & woodyard in SE Portland and let us know how we can help with your next project.
